Topic: Ethics for Everyday Practice

When: July 15, 6-8pm with a social to follow at the Deer Park Tavern (next door)

Where: University of Delaware, Willard 006 and 007

Contact Hours: 2 (certificate provided)

Registration Fees: Members- FREE; Nonmembers - $45

Course Description: Ethical issues are often perceived as something that isn't encountered on an everyday basis. However, there are real world examples that can happen every day! Join us for a discussion of ethical dilemmas you might see on the spectrum of physical therapy practice and how you can utilize a decision making plan when these occur.

By the end of this presentation the learner will be able to:

- Discuss the ethical principles in health care
- Analyze case and professional examples for ethical dilemmas in everyday clinical practice
- Choose a workable model for ethical decision making when the situation occurs

Course Outline:
